

Camille Mech

Executive Bio

Camille Mech is the founder of IdeaMine, a strategy and innovation consultancy for companies and people who want to leave the status quo behind and pursue the truly remarkable.

Camille's specialty is bringing together ideas and stakeholders to shape an exceptional vision and bring it to life. This approach has shifted the fortunes of both individuals and organizations. As a strategist, a speaker, and a coach, she has built her own businesses, transformed the performance of clients, and along the way inspired a multitude of true believers.

The journey to IdeaMine wasn't easy. Her early success as an international business executive and owner/designer of a luxury accessories brand came to a halt when Camille was stricken with disease. Bed-ridden for ten years, she disregarded conventional wisdom to tenaciously research and test solutions. Finally, she healed herself and now is a model for others facing this disease.

Her experience with resurrection guides her approach to life and work. Known for fearlessness and never giving up in the face of adversity, she mobilizes others to make big, bold changes in their lives, their workplaces, and the world. She shows others how to influence opinions and communicate the value of themselves and their ideas.

The outcomes are remarkable: personal and professional growth, business performance, and cultural movements on the national and global stage. We welcome you to join us!
